Homer Tells of College Life in Comic Magazine

"What College Did for Me," is the subject of a short story by Homer Croy, Maryville author, in this month's College Humor. Mr. Croy depicts, in an exaggerated form, perhaps, life at the University of Missouri when he was a student there.

"We began taking the co-eds out buggy riding unchaperoned," he says. "Sometimes the more reckless element would take their suppers along and, tying the horse to a fence post, would sit on the grass, openly ogling the girls."

In a different place in the magazine, there is a caricature of Mr. Croy, his high forehead and bald head exaggerated and a large windsor tie around his neck.

OIL WELL IS DOWN 900 FT.

DRILL IS DECLARED NOW IN CHEROKEE SHALES.

SPECTATORS INCREASE

Even a Shutdown Fails to Stop Stream Of The Curious.—They Smell and Taste.

Resuming operations this morning, the drill was down an even 900 feet in the test well of the Quitman Oil and Gas Co., at noon today. When the hole was measured before the drilling began this morning, it was found that it was 881 feet deep instead of 890 feet as announced Wednesday.

Some excitement was caused among both the drillers and the ever-present spectators, when the drill plunged from shale into a layer of broken shale and sand. The baler, however, showed only a faint trace of oil, it was stated.

There was some delay in firing up anew this morning and another just before noon when the bit, tempered for hard limestone, became stuck in the softer shale.

The drill was declared now to be in the Cherokee division of the Pennsylvanian formation, with the discovery of the potential oil bearing sands possible at any time.

A small group of spectators is present now practically all the time. Even yesterday, when the drill was idle, there was an occasional motor car, whose occupants inspected the outfit with interest, peered curiously into the hole and even scooped up a bit of the pulverized rock and shale to taste or sniff at it for the scent of oil.

Two leaders in the forming of the company, both prominent farmers, have announced their intention of erecting a tent near the well and staying night and day to be present should the much-hoped-for "flowing gold" come in.

Would Save Fish in Overflowed Ponds

Deputy Game Warden and Force of Men to Seine Stranded Fish and Restore Them to Lakes.

John Wallace, deputy game warden for several Northwest Missouri counties, will leave Maryville tomorrow with several men to rescue fish in overflowed ponds near the Missouri river and to restore them to lakes in which they will not be endangered by receding waters.

There are a large number of small ponds near Bigelow, Watson and Oregon, the deputy warden explained, in which fish have been stranded and will perish unless they are put in deeper water. Wallace and his assistants will seine them with a small-mesh seine and most of the fish will be put either in Big Lake, near Bigelow, or Gray's lake, near Watson.

Wallace had just returned from Forest City, near where he confiscated two large nets which had been entirely across a stream. While the state game laws permit the use of nets from June to October, they provide that the nets shall not interfere with the free passage of fish up and down the stream. The nets confiscated by the warden had been placed from bank to bank across a stream which had been filled by backwater from the Missouri river, and the return of fish to the larger stream had been stopped.

Lawrence B. Conway arrived Monday from Cosmopolis, Wash., where he has been teaching, and will spend the summer in Maryville with friends.

COUNTY WHEAT 65 PER CENT

OATS CROP 69 PER CENT OF NORMAL, REPORT SHOWS.

PASTURES ARE FAIR

Tame Hay 75 Per Cent—Rain Badly Needed In All Sections According To State Agriculture Department.

A canvass of June crop prospects in Nodaway county shows the condition of wheat to be 65 per cent of normal. Our oats which suffered from lack of rain during May are 69 per cent compared to the 5-year average June condition of 80 per cent for this county. Tame hay crops are 75 per cent and pastures are 81 per cent; both of which could have used more moisture during the last half of April and most of May. The farm crop of apples are 60 per cent and peaches 51 per cent. Of the hens on Nodaway County farms, 42 per cent were laying June 1st.

Missouri wheat is 69 per cent normal, indicating yield of 11.59 bushels per acre upon 1,220,000 acres or 14,140,000 bushels compared to a condition of 76 per cent for June, 1925, with final yield of 13.2 bushels upon 1,664,000 acres, totaling 21,965,000 bushels for last year's crop, according to E. A. Logan of the United States Bureau of Agriculture Economics and Jewell Mayes of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. The June 1926 condition indicates a total yield of 50 per cent less than the Missouri wheat production for the last two years.

Missouri wheat made but little progress during May because of continued dry weather and unfavorable growing conditions. Plants are thin on the ground with small amount of straw. Very few fields can be classed as good; conditions are poorest in the northern counties and best in the southwest. Improvement is noted since recent rains and heads are reported as filling well. Wheat harvest will begin the last half of June. Slight damage has occurred from hail storms and chinch bugs. The United States winter wheat crop is 543,300,000 against 398,486,000 bushels in 1925. The spring wheat condition is 78.5 per cent compared to 87.1 per cent last year.

Missouri oats are 58 per cent normal compared to 82 per cent last June with yield of 49,166,000 bushels in 1925. The dry weather of May retarded growth and oats are heading short. Some acreage has already been turned to pasturage and considerable will probably be mown for hay. Recent rains have improved prospects and a part of the oat acreage may make a favorable crop. The requirements of binder twine for both wheat and oats are reported considerably less than last year. The national oat crop is 78.8 per cent normal against 79.6 per cent in June of 1925.

Corn planting was not completed in all sections until after the rains the last of May and the first days of June. In many sections the ground became too dry and hard so that the land could not be prepared or the crop planted in rough cloddy soil. Stands are better than was expected, but some replanting has been necessary, because of poor seed and unfavorable soil conditions. Recent rains have greatly benefitted corn. Cultivation has begun on practically all the crop and much of the acreage has been plowed the second and third times. Fields are clean. Moles, cutworms, and wire worms are doing about the usual damage. Reports indicate some acreage intended for wheat and oats as having been planted to corn.

Hay crops suffered from lack of moisture during May and tame hay is 62 per cent normal compared to 76 per cent last June. Timothy at 60 per cent is lowest of hay crops, with clover 63 per cent; mixed clover and timothy 63 per cent; alfalfa 76 per cent; all hay crops now promise a shorter crop than last year. Pastures are only 66 per cent compared to 83 per cent in 1925.

Apple prospects are 65 per cent of normal with commercial orchards quite irregular and 45 per cent of a full crop in prospect. Maiden Blush, Winesaps, Ingrams, and Paynes' Late Keeper are most promising. Jonathans in many orchards bloomed well but set was light. Peaches are 66 per cent compared with 47 per cent last year and prospects are best during the past ten years except for 1922. Southern Missouri peach orchards are less promising than those of northern counties. Strawberries were greatly damaged during May.

Vegetables and truck crops made but little progress during May. Potatoes in the Orrick district were helped by recent rains. The Southwest Missouri onion crop suffered from dry weather.

Milk production is 20 pounds per cow, or the same as in June, 1925, and 46 per cent of the farm hens are laying against 47 per cent last year.

Missouri crop development is 10 to 15 days later than the usual year, due to a general lack of moisture in May, which hurt all crops. Rains during the last days of May and the first of June gave immediate relief, but frequent showers are necessary for future growth. Livestock are healthy, although not taking on fat, due to poor pastures in most sections.

OBSERVE FLAG DAY, REQUEST

LOCAL D. A. R. CHAPTER CALLS ATTENTION TO JUNE 14.

WOULD DISPLAY FLAGS

Robert Gray Was First To Carry the Stars and Stripes Around the World.

The Maryville Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has requested Maryville merchants to display the American flag next Monday, June 14, in observance of National Flag Day.

"We are also anxious that the Stars and Stripes be displayed at private homes," Mrs. George H. Colbert, regent of the local chapter, said this afternoon.

June 14, 1777, Congress by a resolution outlined the design of the National flag "to be thirteen stripes alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing the new constellation." This resolution followed an undecided period during which a flag bearing a snake and a flag bearing a pine tree as well as other designs were used by the various colonies.

Tradition credits the making of the first flag to Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, 80 Arch street, Philadelphia, and a number of patriotic and romantic stories have been told concerning her.

Robert Gray, the discoverer of the Columbia river, was the first man to carry the American flag around the world. He flew it on the "Columbia" in her voyage lasting from September 30, 1787 till 1790.

A RAPTURE IN LEAGUE SEEN

BRAZIL'S WITHDRAWL THOUGHT TO BE FORERUNNER.

HEAVY BLOW IN BREAK

New World Without Representation In League Council Since South American Nation Quit.

Washington, June 11.—Brazil's withdrawal from the League of Nations Council was seen in diplomatic circles today as a forerunner of a definite rupture between Latin America and the League, tending further to reduce the League as a tribunal for the settlement of European quarrels.

The action of Brazil fell like a pall in pro-League circles in Washington and was received with undisguised joy by those who contend that the League is primarily an Old World body.

The final break and withdrawal of Brazil from the League itself would admittedly be a heavy blow to the League's influence in South America. Brazil is already understood to have sounded out other Latin-Americans nations on a general withdrawal of membership from the League, should her claims be rejected.

With the United States, Brazil and Mexico standing aloof from the League, it was pointed out in diplomatic circles that the natural results would be to weld Pan American nations together with the Monroe doctrine as a basis of refusing to join in European quarrels.

The New World is left without representation on the League Council through Brazil's withdrawal, although there are seventeen Latin American nations holding membership in the League. European domination of the supreme tribunal of the League will be further increased by the addition of Germany, it was pointed out by the Brazilian spokesman here.

The decision of the League to provide no more permanent seats after Germany is admitted leaves no hope for South America to again achieve a permanent seat at the European Council tables.

Work on Pickering Road Is Going Well

Work on the paving between Maryville and Pickering has been progressing well this week, something more than a quarter of a mile of concrete having been laid each day. The work was held up part of yesterday by slippery roads in the morning and later in the day by the water in the river becoming so muddy from rain further north.

About two miles of paving has been completed.

Britain Protests Use of 'Red' Funds

Russian Attitude Makes Political or Commercial Negotiations Difficult, Says Note.

London, June 11.—Great Britain has sent a strong protest to the soviet government condemning the action of the soviet in permitting money to be sent to England during the recent general strike on the grounds that such funds were calculated to be used to secure a change in government and foment revolution.

The note states that Russia's attitude makes further negotiations, whether political or commercial, between Great Britain and the soviet government extremely difficult.

The text of the note will not be published until after it has been received in Moscow but it may be released tomorrow morning.

In view of the fact that the funds, which were sent from Russia, were refused by the Trades Union Congress during the general strike, it is believed the money eventually reached the striking coal miners.

It is understood that the British government will also send a supplemental note protesting against Russian interference with any British industrial dispute.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTE COSTLY

DRAG NETS ARE OUT

Pinchot Manager Accuses Pepper Forces "Bought Out" Vote In Alleghany County.

Washington, June 11.—The three-cornered Senatorial race in Pennsylvania last month was listed above the "million dollar class" today when Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, testified he had advanced $408,000 to the Pepper-Fisher campaign.

Grundy, a supporter of Senator George Wharton Pepper, told the Senate slush fund committee he had given the Republican Citizens Committee at Philadelphia, a Pepper organization $300,000 in unsecured loans, $18,000 in cash, and stood as guarantor on a note for $90,000, cashed by the Corn Exchange Bank of Philadelphia.

Grundy's funds brought the total expenditures in the Pennsylvania campaign to $1,106,000, as the admitted in sworn testimony. The expenditures thus far reported include $195,000 by Governor Pinchot, $125,000 by Senator Pepper, $75,000 by Representative William S. Vare, $306,000 by W. L. Mellon, a nephew of the Secretary of Treasury, and $408,000 by Grundy.

Washington, June 11. — Plunging along a trail of election corruption, the Senate slush fund committee today sought further light in Pennsylvania's five-million-dollar Senatorial primary.

The committee's drag net thus far has unearthed about $700,000 in expenditures, chiefly in the western corners of the state, with the great central and eastern industrial centers, including Philadelphia, as yet unheard from.

Of this sum, the committee was told, almost $500,000 was spent by the campaign committee of Senator George W. Pepper, who was defeated, and Representative William Vare, who won the nomination, in the employment of watchers in Pittsburgh.

The amazing development centered around the charges of Charles McGovern, western manager for Governor Pinchot, who testified that the Pepper forces bought four out of every ten votes cast for the Senator in Alleghany County.

FARM RELIEF NOW DUBIOUS

DEFEAT PROBABLY AWAITS HAUGEN BILL IN SENATE.

Both Parties Badly Split Over Farm Legislation Issue—G. O. P. Leaders Oppose Coolidge.

Washington, June 11.—While the Iowa political explosion continues to grip the capital today, it appeared better than an even money bet that Congress will fade out of Washington in a few weeks without having done anything to placate the rebellious corn belt in the way of farm relief legislation.

What the political consequences of such neglect will be is a matter that is agitating a good many Congressional blossoms, Republicans and Democrats alike.

A vote on the McNary-Haugen bill, which President Coolidge has characterized as economically unsound and which Vice-President Dawes has pronounced an estimable piece of legislation in every respect, is now scheduled for the middle of next week in the Senate. It already has been defeated in the House by a coalition of eastern Republicans and southern Democrats and a similar fate probably awaits it in the Senate, although the vote is expected to be close.

There remains only the revamped Tincher bill providing a hundred-million-dollar revolving fund to be lent to co-operative marketing establishments. This was introduced as an administration measure. It has been defeated in the House by the corn belt bloc and it can be defeated in the Senate by the same element.

Both parties are badly split on the issue of farm legislation, although the Republican split is more definite and more significant from a political standpoint.

With such outstanding Republicans as Vice-President Dawes, Senator Watson of Indiana and Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, as well as others, leading the fight for the passage of a bill which a Republican President has denounced as unsound and radical, a greater split could hardly be imagined.

Democrats Will Win Iowa, Says Meredith

Brookhart Victory a Slap at Coolidge Administration, Declares Former Agriculture Secretary.

Chicago, June 11.—Characterizing the Brookhart victory in Iowa over Senator Albert B. Cummins as a slap at the federal administration's failure to provide relief measures for the farmers, E. T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, today predicted another Democratic Senatorial victory next November.

Meredith made the prediction in an address before the Executive Club here this afternoon.

Discussing the plight of the farmers, Meredith said:

"Take New York state with a million idle acres right next to the world's greatest markets. Why are they idle? Because the farmer can't produce the crops and be sure of getting enough money for him to live on. We talk about surplus crops, but surplus crops are not the real problem in this country.

"The real problem of the farmers is balanced production. What we need is a commission composed of the Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Labor and Secretary of Commerce, with another member appointed by the President. This commission would form minimum farm production prices."

THE RESTFUL MOVIES.

Maybe Thomas A. Edison is right in saying that Americans don't want speaking films because they prefer "restful quiet" in a moving picture theatre. A frequent patron of the movies remarks that his own experience supports this view—"there is really more rebellion among a picture show audience against conversation and irrelevant noises than among those attending the spoken drama."

American ears have to endure a good deal from the noise of every-day life, especially in crowded cities. It is a relief to many a sound-weary and nerve-weary man and woman to drop into a place where, along with entertainment that distracts one's thoughts from personal or business affairs, the stress is transferred from ears to eyes.

There was a time when this was so hard on the eyes as to jangle the patron's nerves, and so spoil the benefit of silence. But improvements in the projecting machines have remedied that. The ordinary picture theatre today is really restful. May we still have such theatres, even if the talking films arrive instead of letting chatter and jazz invade the last sanctuary of silence outside of the church.

KEEP TOURISTS MOVING.

A good many tourist camps in the Far West are said to be adopting "Love 'em and leave 'em" as their motto for the coming season. "Them" refers to the fine, free, overnight facilities offered to transeint campers. They want the visiting tourists to use and enjoy those facilities—water, light fire wood, shade trees, and so on—and then to move on promptly.

Problems have arisen because of so-called tourists who ceased touring when they struck a free camp that met their tastes and needs. Such campers have all too frequently settled down to a makeshift sort of housekeeping, sending their children to local schools, doing enough odd jobs to meet current food expenses and otherwise leading lives of comparative idleness. Naturally they have not proved satisfactory guests to the hospitable communities offering the camp sites.

"Move on" is to be the new order for tourist campers. Any family that wants to settle down and become responsible citizens may do so—but not in the camp grounds.

DEBT REDUCTION.

There is some disagreement about the President's declaration that whatever surplus develops henceforth in the national treasury should be used not to reduce taxes further, but to reduce the national debt.

By one method, the taxpayers would hold onto a little more of the money they are now paying the government. By the other, the government would take that bit of money and use it to pay the debts—which are also the taxpayers' debts. The latter method looks sound as a general proposition.

The policy suggested is a good one for individuals to follow in their private affairs. Use your surplus to reduce your debts and cut down interest charges.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART.
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—Every family that ever wondered how it was going to pay the rent or shivered at the word mortgage will be interested in the proposal of Congressman Robert Crosser of Cleveland, Ohio.

He would have the government do for the struggling householder what it already has done successfully for the farmer. His national home loan bill would help people buy homes just as the farm loan act helps the buy farms. And he would put out of their jobs a lot of business boosters for whom he has no more respectful name than Shylocks.

"I began thinking about this question as a result of some law cases I have handled," Crosser tells you. "People have come to me for help after having made several years' payments on their homes.

"For some reason they have to sell and they can't even get back their original payment. Well, they have been charged interest at the full legal rate, whatever that is. Sometimes it is 8 per cent, sometimes 11 per cent. Then they have been charged a bonus or commission, which goes up to 30 or 40 per cent additional. It is plain usury, but it is being done.

"Now, if the government helps the farmers, as it should, why not the average family also? There are about six and a half million farms in the United States, but there are more than 24 million families that have to have homes."

Those whose homes are mortgaged would be eager, Crosser figures, to exchange their present obligations for the more reasonable rates of loans by the proposed national home loan bank.

The maximum interest charge from one of the proposed home loan banks would be 6 per cent. The total amount borrowed could be anywhere from $200 to $8,000, and Crosser is inclined to increase that total somewhat. The limit of borrowing would be 60 per cent of the total value of the home to be bought.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Senate Tries to Interpret Pennsylvania Primaries.

Washington, June 11.—The Senate is still arguing over how the Pennsylvania primary should have been interpreted from their various viewpoints.

Although William S. Vare, wet running on a beer and light wine ticket, won over Senator George Wharton Pepper, a dry supported by the Mellon organization and the administration, and Gov. Gifford Pinchot, more ardent dry—the senate cannot determine to its own satisfaction of all just what the Pennsylvania Republican voters meant.

Recent debate over the question in the upper house has added another proof of the futility of interpreting the meaning of any election.

Senator Reed, Republican Pennsylvania—It cannot be interpreted as a wet referendum because the total votes of the two dry candidates were greater than the one wet candidate although the wet won. Likewise a dry candidate, John S. Fisher was at the same time chosen Republican gubernatorial candidate, against three wets.

Senator Bruce, Maryland, Democrat wet—It is a sweeping wet victory, more sweeping even than the figures indicate because many wets refused to vote for Vare. Many wet laboring men voted for Pinchot and many other wets voted for Pepper. The fact that a dry gubernatorial candidate was chosen does not mean anything because there were state issues involved.

Senator Robinson, Democrat leader, Arkansas—Don't forget that Senator Pepper who was defeated went before the voters on his record of support of the administration and asked his constituents to choose him to vindicate the national Republican administration.

The Senate farm bloc held a recent luncheon to discuss ways and means for adopting agriculture relief legislation which was attended by about a dozen senators. It was supposed to be a "Dutch Treat," each one paying his own way.

When the luncheon was over, however, the bill was brought to Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, long a champion of the farmers.

Gooding raised his eyebrows but paid the check as another contribution to farm relief.

Sweden to Celebrate.

Stockholm.—A double royal jubilee is already under preparation for King Gustav V of Sweden two years from now, as at that time he can celebrate both his 70th birthday and the 20th anniversary of his succession to the throne. Though the two dates do not exactly coincide they fall near enough each other to justify a combined observance. The celebration will probably be set for the spring of 1928.

GUM-DIPPING

the Extra Process for Extra Miles!

Breaks all Tire Records

The 500 Mile Speed Classic at Indianapolis has always been a Battle of Tires. In 1911, Firestone won with fabric tires at 74.59 miles per hour. In 1920, Firestone won with cord tires at 88.55 miles per hour. In 1925, Firestone won with Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons at the record breaking average speed of 101.13 miles per hour.

In 1926, Firestone again won with Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. The ten cars to finish "in the money" were all Firestone-equipped. They went the distance without a single blowout and with but two tire failures—one due to a puncture and the other to a leaky valve.

The Mark of Quality

This performance is even more remarkable when you consider the terrific speeds at which the cars traveled over this fifteen-year-old, rough brick track.

Experienced race drivers will not risk their lives or chances of victory on any other tires. And in the commercial field, large truck, motorbus and taxicab fleet operators, who keep careful cost records are among the big users of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

The City Transportation Co., of Tacoma, Wash., writes: "One of our 12 buses on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has gone over 40,600 miles and still looks good for many miles of extra service For all around tire safety and mileage, Firestone cannot be beat."

From Calumet Motor Coach Co., Hammond, Ind., the following: "We operate 40 buses all equipped with Gum-Dipped Tires. The very low cost per mile on which these tires operate is considerably less than that of any other make." Hayes Bus Lines, Columbia, S. C., say: "We operate 19 buses equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. A number of these tires have run over 45,000 miles without ever having been removed from the rim."

The largest taxicab companies in the world standardize on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. W. R. Rothwell, taxicab operator, Detroit, Mich., writes: "Two of my Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have run 76,000 miles."

Hundreds of thousands of car owners voluntarily testify to the safety, comfort and economy of Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. W. H. Peacock, Birmingham, Ala., testifies: "I have had Firestone Balloons for thirteen months and they have delivered in that time 24,469 miles." H. C. Staehle, Minneapolis, Minn., says: "My Firestone Balloons have gone 49,900 miles and are still in good condition."

These records of endurance, speed, safety and mileage could only have been made because of Firestone development of the Gum-Dipping process which insulates and saturates every fiber of every cord with rubber, reducing friction and heat and building greater strength and endurance in the cords—assuring you at all times—

Get $10.35 Per Hundred for Hereford Yearlings—Armstrong of Barnard Has Good Lot.

Joseph Jackson and E. J. Schooler topped the Kansas City market yesterday with three carloads of Hereford yearlings. There were fifty four head in the lot and they brought $10.35 per hundredweight.

These cattle were purchased on the Omaha market and have been on full feed since the early part of October.

The price paid was the highest on the Kansas City market during the last four months, with the exception of show cattle.

When received, these cattle averaged 380 pounds, showing a gain of 521 pounds, which proved a big factor in handling them. Added to this was a feeding margin of $2.10. With their fine quality and the good finish, they proved a very attractive bunch of cattle.

S. E. Armstrong of Barnard made a good sale on the Kansas City market yesterday on nineteen head of steers good enough to bring $10.10. They averaged 1,210 pounds. This was the tail end of a total of seventy-two steers Mr. Armstrong bought last November, which were finished on a ration of corn, alfalfa and molasses feed.

Ernest Willhoyte also had seventeen head of cattle on the Kansas City market. They brought $9.75.

Wets Continue to Circulate Petitions

Efforts Are Made in Each Congressional District for a Referendum at Missouri Primary.

St. Louis, June 11.—Every effort is being made to place a prohibition referendum on the August primary ballot by wet forces.

Led by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, wets have organized each congressional district. A force in each district is engaged in passing petitions seeking signatures which would place the wet and dry issue before Missouri voters.

No estimate can be given yet as to the number of signatures obtained.

Robert H. Keiser, secretary of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment will say only that the work is "progressing satisfactorily." National officers of the organization will come here tomorrow to direct the work.

Drys are not actually opposing the move toward a referendum, concentrating all their forces against wet candidates who will come up at the August primaries. Heads of the Anti-Saloon League seek to narrow the field to one dry against several candidates for high offices who are avowed wets.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Jones and daughter of Parsons, Kan., are visiting Mr. Jones' father, P. L. Jones of Ravenwood. They will be guests this evening of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rhodes of Maryville.

GOOD HURLER HERE SUNDAY

MERCHANTS ENGAGE PITCHER THEY BELIEVE CAN WIN.

TO PLAY WHITESVILLE

Behind "Chief" Brown, Local Team Expects To Start String Of Victories.

A re-organized Maryville baseball club will be presented when the Merchants play here Sunday with Whitesville, one of the strongest teams in this section, it was announced today.

At a meeting of the players this week, it was agreed that the chief lack during the early part of the season has been that of a competent boxman. As a result, the team has engaged Clarence ("Chief") Brown to do the twirling for the home crew Sunday. The Chief is a former National and Western league pitcher, and has assured the local managers that he will have plenty of "stuff."

Brown spent two years on the list of eligibles of the Brooklyn club in the National League, and while he did not become a regular he was looked upon with enough favor that strings were kept on him through two seasons. Last year he was with the Des Moines club of the Western League, but a sore arm developed and when it was proposed that he be sent to the Texas League to boil out the soreness he refused. He is employed at Clarinda, Ia., and declares his wing has regained his efficiency.

The rest of the line-up will be changed radically, Laughlin will go behind the bat to receive Brown's slants. Brennan will take first base, Tobin second base, Arthur shortstop and Jameson will have the hot corner at third. In the outfield will be Woolgn, Barnes and England, with Mayes available for utility duty.

The Merchants have collected together a capable bunch of young ball players, in spite of the fact that they have looked bad at times. Most of the errors, however, have resulted when opposing batters have seized upon a straight ball offering and have slammed it at the infield with murderous force. With a more effective twirler, the team is expected to look much different.

Advance Ordered in State Hospital Fees

Monthly Charge for Private Patients Is Increased From $20 to $40—County Patients $18.

Mexico, Mo., June 11. — The state eleemosynary board, at its semi-annual meeting in Jefferson City Tuesday afternoon, advanced the monthly charge for private patients at the eleemosynary institutions in Missouri from $20 to $40. The institutions affected are the state hospitals at Fulton, St. Joseph, Nevada and Farmington, and superintendents at these hospitals have been notified the increase is effective October 1. This increase, reported unofficially here following the board meeting, was verified by Col. R. M. White, senior board member, today, who also said in explanation of the board's action:

"It is costing the state between $30 and $40 monthly to care for insane patients, our records show. The law fixes the prices for the indigent, to be paid for as county patients, as $18 monthly. These charitable institutions were built especially for the indigent, and it is proper for the state to pay the loss on county patients, but not on private patients."

Wheat Harvest Starts in Southern Kansas

Clear Skies and High Temperatures Give Promise of Speedy Work—135 Million Bushels Estimate.

Topeka, Kan., June 11. — Southern Kansas is harvesting its wheat, the first section in the state to start the actual cutting. Clear skies and high temperatures today greeted the one thousand workers who are already in the fields, giving promise of speedy work in getting to market the now estimated 133 million bushels which will be produced.

The harvesting will be well under way in all sections of the state by the middle of next week, it was said.

Specialists Will Aid in City Government

Madison, Wis., June 10.—To aid municipal authorities in solving problems of administration, legislation, public utilities and regulation, the Cooperative Public Service of specialists in regulation has been formed with its center in New York City, and Prof. Martin G. Glaeser, of the economics department of the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed to the advisory council.

Only one other educator, Prof. R. A. Seligman, political economy, Columbia University, is on the council. The other members are city attorneys, mayors, and officers of municipal leagues.

The service aims at an association of cities, through the operation of which will be collected and disseminated data and advice on such matters as recent decisions of the courts, and of commissions, regarding municipal regulation, compilation of costs for construction and equipment, comparison of rates and operating costs for public utilities, new improvements and inventions, the development of franchises, special contracts and ordinances.

The service will be operated at cost to municipalities subscribing for membership. Prof. Glasser, as a member of the advisory council, will consider and make recommendations upon questions involving regulation of public utilities. He has just finished a book on this subject, the first of its kind to be written.

What Nodaway County Churches Are Doing

THE STORY OF TWO JEWISH BOYS

Comment on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for June 13, 1926.
Read Genesis 39.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

There died in New York a few days before this is written a man whose life was a romance and an inspiration. Coming to the United States as an immigrant Oscar Solomon Straus was twice minister and once ambassador to Turkey, he was the first of his race to become a member of the cabinet of the President of the United States. He was a lawyer but soon turned to business and became a wealthy man. He gave the last thirty years of his life to public service.

Everything Oscar Straus touched prospered. As minister to Turkey he was instrumental in reopening fifty schools and protecting more than five hundred missions from harm. He afterward obtained from the Turkish government a decision whereby all foreign, religious, educational and benevolent institutions were permitted to hold landed property. More than three hundred American organizations were affected by this decision.

Now turn with me to the story of that other Jewish boy whose life was lived thirty-seven centuries ago. Joseph was the son of Jacob and the grand son of Abraham. He was sold as a slave into Egypt. He was faithful to every trust and rose to be the second man in power in the kingdom. He held in his hand the destinies of many peoples and brought his own father and his brethren from famine starved canaan to Egypt, where there was plenty. He did a man's work in a man's way and died full of honors.

The death of Oscar Straus in New York in 1926 brought the unusual tribute of more than a column in the newspapers carrying the Associated Press article.

Had the story of the life of Oscar Straus been written by Oriential historians of his own race, it would have been almost parallel to that of Joseph. Both were Jewish boys of good family and fine home training. Both were well grounded in the principles of honesty, honor, fidelity. Both were thorough believers in God. Both won the faith of the people with whom they were thrown and both attained high political honors and great wealth and power.

In the story of Joseph as recorded in Genesis we are constantly reminded that Joseph was faithful to God and that God prospered him. The cause and effect bring emphasis. In the modern story of Oscar Straus is recorded the long list of his successes, his humble handicapped start, but nowhere in our modern story do we attribute his success to God. Yet the same conclusions may easily be drawn from each story.

I sometimes wonder if we give God credit when we should. We are always willing to accept His help and to take what He sends us but I imagine a lot of us soon begin to think that our success is because of our own especial smartness and some of us begin to think that we are especial pets of Divine providence and appointed to rule over the balance of the world and tell them what clothes to wear, what make of car to buy and what special brand of religion to profess.

The judge of the juvenile court in my district tells me that it is a very rare thing for a boy brought before him for delinquency to claim a Sunday school training. The delinquent boys do not come from the Sunday schools, nor do they come from the real homes. I feel sorry for the boy or girl who has never had a home background and who has never had a Sunday school training. The boy with the training absorbs something which always influences his life, he has been given a faith and a fidelity and an idea of honor and of God which never as long as he lives will he forget. It is pure libel, the story you have heard repeated, that the preacher's sons are the toughest nuts in town. Records show more great and useful men come from preacher's families than from the families of any other profession. The boy who starts life with a careful home training and a Sunday school background has a far better chance than the one who has not had these advantages.

May I carry you one step further. Father never goes to Sunday school or church. He claims that he works all week and is entitled to spend Sunday as he pleases. He gets on his old clothes and luxuriates in the back yard taking the automobile to pieces, or he dresses in knee pants and spends the day at golf. He sternly demands that his children go to Sunday school and church. His boy thinks that father is the greatest man in the whole world. Dad can lick anybody, he could have licked Goliath. Dad is his hero. Dad does not go to Sunday school, ergo Sunday school does not amount to anything.

Joseph had home training and religious instruction. He was grounded in the faith of his fathers. He believed in God. When the great trial and temptation came to Joseph, he stood strong and straight. Fidelity and faith make up the great part of great characters. The Bible tells us that God prospered Joseph in every relation. Oscar Straus was grounded in faith. His fidelity to his trust carried him far. He was loyal to his race, he was loyal to his home training and he was loyal to his country.

I am not sure that it might have been just as truly written of Straus as of Joseph. He was loyal to God and God prospered him.

If is no trouble for us to accept the theory of the Bible about somebody who died more than three thousand years ago that he was prosperous and successful because God had him in His especial care.

But we are inclined to be skeptical when in this modern time, in the Twentieth century, some contemporary is credited with being under the hand of God.

I believe that God works now just as He did when Joseph lived. That his hand is in the world and in the lives of men. That character, fidelity and faith make up the strength of real success.

We admire the man who is honest, who stands the gaff, who sticks to his principles, who is brave and never falters, who never whimpers and who succeeds.

Where did he get those principles and that strength? At the same place from the same source Joseph found in the 17th century before Christ and Oscar Straus in the Twentieth century after Christ.

THE FIDELITY OF JOSEPH.

Scripture Lesson—Gen. 39:1-33.

1. And Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmaelites, which had brought him down thither.

2. And the Lord was with Joseph, and he was a prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian.

3. And his master saw that the Lord was with him, and that the Lord made all that he did to prosper in his hand.

4. And Joseph found grace in his sight, and he served him; and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand.

5. And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the Lord blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the Lord was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field.

6. And he left all that he had in Joseph's hand; and he knew not ought he had, save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph was a goodly person, and well favoured.

19. And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying: After this manner did thy servant to me; that his wrath was kindled.

20. And Joseph's master took him, and put him into the prison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound; and he was there in the prison.

21. But the Lord was with Joseph, and shewed him merey, and gave him favour in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

22. And the keeper of the prison committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners that were in the prison; and whatsoever they did there, he was the doer of it.

23. The keeper of the prison looked not to any thing that was under his hand; because the Lord was with him, and that which he did, the Lord made it to prosper.

Why I Go To Church On Rainy Sundays!

I attend church on rainy Sundays because

1. God has blessed the Lord's Day and hallowed it, making no exceptionz for hot or cold or stormy days.

2. I expect my minister to be there I should be surprised if he were to stay at home on account of the weather.

3. If his hands fail through weakness I shall have great reason to blame myself, unless I sustain him by my prayers and presence.

4. By staying away I may lose the prayers which may bring God's blessing, and the sermon that would have done me great good.

5. My presence is more needed on Sundays when there are few than on those days when the church is crowded.

6. Whatever station I hold in the church, my example must influence others. If I stay away, why may not they?

7. On any important business rainy weather does not keep me at home, and church attendance is, in God's sight, very important.

8. Among the crowds of pleasure-seekers I see that no weather keeps the delicate woman from the ball, the party, or the concert.

9. Such weather will show me on what foundation my faith is built; it will prove how much I love Christ. True love rarely fails to meet an appointment.

10. Those who stay from church because it is too warm or too cold or too rainy frequently absent themselves on fair Sundays. I must not take a step in that direction.

11. Though my excuses satisfy myself, they still must undergo God's scrutiny; and they must be well grounded to do that.

12. There is a special promise that where two or three meet together in God's name he will be in the midst of them.

13. An avoidable absence from the church is an infallible evidence of spiritual decay. Disciples first follow Christ at a distance, and then, like Peter, do not know him.

14. My faith is to be shown by my self-denying Christian life, and not by the rise or fall of the thermometer.

15. Such yielding to surmountable difficulties prepares for yielding to those merely imaginary, until thousands never enter a church, and yet think they have a good reason for such neglect.

16. I know not how many more Sundays God may give me, and it would be a poor preparation for my first Sunday in heaven to have slighted my last Sunday on earth.

—Frances R. Havergal.

Hi-Y Convention to Trenton This Year

Will Be Held the Latter Part of November, According to Letter Received by Walter Allen.

The Northwest Missouri convention of Hi-Y Clubs will be held at Trenton the latter part of November, according to a letter received by Walter Allen, a leader in the local Hi-Y Club, from F. M. Liddle, secretary of the state organization.

At the convention at Chillicothe last fall, it was agreed that the meeting should go to either Maryville or Trenton. Because of the fact that the Northwest Missouri conference is being held in the extreme eastern part of the state this fall, it was thought best not to take the Northwest conference to the extreme western part. Hence, Trenton was awarded the conference for this fall.

However, according to the present plans, Maryville will be favored for the Northwest Missouri conference in 1927.

Mr. Allen will represent the local Hi-Y Club at the state camp at Hollister, Mo., the latter part of next month. Several others from Maryville may also attend.

DRAMATIC EVENTS IN BIBLE HISTORY : : By Walter Scott and Harlowe R. Hoyt

Joseph and His Bretherr

Of Jacob's twelve sons, Joseph was the favorite. When his father gave him a many colored coat, he incurred the enmity of his brothers.
Joseph also told them of a dream forecasting his fame and power. Maddened with jealousy, his brothers cast him into an abandoned well to die.
Later, they rescued Joseph and sold him to a passing caravan. But his coat they dipped in goat's blood and took to Jacob, telling him wild beasts had killed the youth.
Taken into Egypt, Joseph was sold as a slave to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh's. He won his master's favor and became his overseer.

The BOBCAT

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Big Tim Burke, real estate operator, and known to his associates as a land pirate, discharges one of his young lieutenants, Pol Gaillard, because he is irritated by the latter's sleekness of appearance and nonchalant manner. Pol learns that his ex-boss covets a desirable piece of Long Island property owned by Professor Husted and that another land shark, Michael Cadrigan, is after the same bit of land. Cadrigan lives on the shore of Long Island sound with his stepdaughter, Veronica.

INSTALLMENT V.

The Mysterious Sloop.

Cadrigan lighted a cigar, and looked meditatively at the opposite shore, and expanded promontory of scrubby woods and pasture, about four hundred acres in extent. Since the building of the old farmhouse nearly a hundred years before no work of any improving character had been done.

"There," said Cadrigan to Veronica, "is about a million dollars lying idle. If properly handled it might quickly treble that."

"This whole shore is littered with million dollar properties, daddy. Get after some of them and leave the poor old professor in peace."

"It is tantalizing, my dear, to sit here day by day and look at that patch of scrub and think what might be done with it. It is not so much the money I could make that torments me as to see daily such a wonderful tract for development profiting nobody. And it is not as if I wanted to put a blot on the face of nature, like Tim Burke's factory sites with their surrounding kennels all alike, or even his so-called model homes. There is a room over there for a half of dozen beautiful places like this."

"That will happen some day," said Veronica.

"Of course. And it is just that thought that drives me crazy. I want to do it myself. The professor might easily outlive me. These old time Yankees are tough."

"Well, but after all it is his," said Veronica wearily. She had heard such laments almost daily, and knew the trend of them. Cadrigan would drift presently to his habitual appeal that she use her influence with the stubborn owner.

"What good is it all to the professor?" he demanded petulantly. "Some place like it but more remote would suit him even better, where he would not have the ill will of all around him for tying up the property."

"The professor doesn't feel that way about it," said Veronica for the hundreth time.

"Because he is an old obstructionist. If it were primeval, it might be a different matter. But it is just a tract of rocky scrub. Before I got in this business I was the means of razing hundreds of acres of virgin forest, leaving only stumps and brambles. But it was a wilderness that did nobody any good and the lumber went into the development of populated districts. But here it is to hog the best location for miles around." He looked aslant at Veronica. "Can't you manage to persuade the old gentleman to let me have a talk with him, Veronica?"

Veronica shook her head. "He doesn't like you, daddy, for some reason. It seems to upset him to have me speak of you at all. Besides, he hates any reference to his property. Sometimes I think he let himself be committed to the Retreat out of sheer desperation, because he was pestered to sell. It's as if he had some superstition about letting it go out of his hands."

"That's the whole of the trouble," Cadrigan complained. "It's a form of madness, a monomania. If he is adjudged sane he cannot be made to sell, and if he is insane one could not get a clear title. So now that he has been restored to the legal rights of control over his property we are no better off than before."

"Well, at least there's no danger of objectionable features," said Veronica.

"One might say the same about that stretch of water out there. It is a purely negative advantage. But since you persist in going over to look after his needs and he seems so fond of you, can you not manage little by little to inject him with some reason?"

Veronica sighed and shook her head. "I've told you a hundred times daddy, that he will not discuss the question at all. I quite agree with you that he would be much better off in some other place where he could be undisturbed and looked after properly. But if I try to suggest it, he gets silent and morose."

Cadrigan's face darkened, assumed its Spanish expression. "Then in that case I'd rather you did not go over there at all, Veronica. I do not like to forbid you anything, but I prefer that you should stay away from Husted's Point."

"Why?"

"Well, for one thing—the professor has his enemies and I do not want to risk the chance of your being included."

Veronica did not answer. It occurred to her that this was a mean and rather feeble subterfuge. As long as there had seemed to Cadrigan a possibility of her persuading the professor to dispose of some of his property, Cadrigan had not objected to her visits. But with this hope abandoned he obviously reasoned that her solicitous care of the solitary old man must be more of a hindrance than a help to his ambition, and that the professor being thus cared and to same extent provided for, would be less subject than ever to any argument for abdication.

Cadrigan appeared to read her thoughts. "These Italians of mine who have located on the neck are getting restive. They know that as long as the professor's property is tied up there can be no increase in the value of their own. It would not be surprising should they turn to some dirty method to run him out."

"I don't think there's any danger of that," said Veronica. "They've got the Italian respect for the rights of proprietorship."

"Less that than American ideas of progress. The old order changeth, my dear. Moreover, we are living in a period of intolerance. These Italians know that if Husted's Point were open for development it would be in big estates, and they have, in a way, the key to the salient. Their few shore acres would increase their value several hundred per cent, to say nothing of all the need of high priced labor that would be released. I really believe the professor is running serious risk of danger in obstinately blocking all this. I wish you would tell him that."

"There you go again, daddy—I'd rather stay away."

"Well, then, stay away. When were you there last?"

"Yesterday. I jumped the gate and pulled a tendon of Barney's hind hock, dodging a fool in a flivver who came whizzing past."

"Bad luck to him. Another real estate scout, I'll bet a nickel."

His black bushy eyebrows came down and he stared at a thirty-foot sloop yacht that was a anchor on the other shore directly off the farm house. 'Who is doing for the old man?"

"Nobody. He does for himself."

Now what," said Cadrigan, "do you supose that chump in the sloop is hangin' round for, Veronica?"

"I don't know,' said Veronica. "Let's get in the launch and go ask him."

"Well, why not?" said Cadrigan. 'He can no more than tell us where to get off."

Veronica was surprised and a little startled. She was bold only in a physical way and even there less daring than assured. She was no more markedly of the athletic type than had been her cool and limpid mother, also a proficient horsewoman.

'Would it be dignified?" she asked doubtfully.

'Not very." Cadrigan answered grimly, "but I would stretch a point to look him over. Now that Husted point is marketable I cannot sleep for fear that some shark might beat me to it. I am jealous of that patch of scrub as a girl of her best beau. Come on, let's go."

'What will you say to him, daddy?"

"That the weather will be fine if it does not rain. That I have watched him making a sketch of my place and would like to see it, if he does not mind."

Veronica laughed. 'So you've had the glass on him, too!"

"I have. I would have the glass on a stray dog I saw lopin' over that property. Lawyers are cute and reporters are cuter, but there's nothin' so cute as the real estate pirate. They say I am one myself so I ought to know."

RICKETS CAN BE CURED IN THREE WAYS

Sunlight, Good Food and Cod-Liver Oil Have Proved the Right Remedies to Use for a Child Suffering From This Disease.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

One of the common diseases of infants is known as rickets. A baby may start out apparently well and normal. Pretty soon its plumpness fades away, the tissues grow flabby and soft, and the poor little mortal becomes feeble and helpless.

The weakness of the child is shown by the inability to control its movements and by free sweatings of the skin. The bones grow soft, yielding to pressure and the weight of the body. The ends of the bones become swollen and knobby. This is particularly true of the long bones and the ribs.

The forehead bulges, the abdomen is swolen, and sometimes the glands are involved. The chest is narrow and the breast bone pushes out, as somebody said, "like the keel of a ship or the breast of a chicken."

This disease is particularly common among the children of the poor. But not by any means is it confined to the poverty stricken. Some of the children of the rich are badly involved. Their friends and family can hardly credit it, but, in spite of their disbelief, rickets is found in every walk of life.

Canadian children are rarely the victims of this disease, but it is very common in the great American cities. Certain races, particularly the negroes and Italians, are peculiarly liable to rickets.

The reason why the poor are more likely to have this ailment is because of the bad housing, with exclusion of the sun and all its benefits. Any child denied the privileges of fresh air, sunlight, the common hygienic rules of living and good food, is liable to have rickets.

It is a pity that any children of the well-to-do are neglected. But some of them are neglected, it must be admitted. It is bad enough for the kiddies of the slums to suffer this way, but there seems little excuse for it in houses with big windows, opening to the sunlight and fresh air.

There are two pretty sure ways of getting rid of rickets. One is to flood the dwelling places of the babies with sunlight. There is something in the rays of the sun which has the power to impart strength, growth and health.

The baby should be taken into the sun every day. Spread a sheet on the lawn and let the baby crawl and stretch to its heart's content.

There is one medicine which never fails in rickets. This is an old standby, but never in its long history was cod-liver oil so popular as now. This drug, or perhaps we should call it food, is a specific for rickets. No quicker or better way can be found to get rid of the disease.

Of course, old-fashioned cod-liver oil is not pleasant to take. The research men have found a way to extract the good qualities of this remedy and put them up in tablet form, easy to take.

Sunlight, good food and cod-liver oil will do away with the effects of rickets.

2—Backbone State Park, Delaware County, Iowa. Beautiful Richmond Springs and trout fish hatchery nearby. Near Manchester which is on State Highways No. 5 and No. 13.

3—Statue of Sacagawea who helped Lewis and Clark win the race with England for the Oregon country, a more important and romantic figure in our early history than Pocahontas. At Bismarck, North Dakota. State Highways No. 3 and No. 6.

4—Galena, Kansas, center of America's greatest Lead-Zinc fields. Itasca Park Highway No. 7 from Pittsburg.

5—Tomb of Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois, with hundreds of souvenirs of his life. The town of Old Salem nearby, preserved as it was when Lincoln lived there. State Highways No. 10 and No. 4.

6—Man-shaped Indian mounds. Two miles north of Baraboo, Wisconsin. State Highway No. 13.

7—Lake of the Torch, Michigan, named from the habit of the Chippewa Indians of fishing at night by means of birch bark torches. Glorious resort region. State Highway No. 11.

8—"Hole Tavern" or "High Street House", an old tavern in New Albany, Indiana, where Daniel Webster, Andrew Jackson and Henry Clay stopped. State Highways No. 16 and No. 5.

9—The Mississippi Valley in Minnesota from the Twin Cities to the Iowa line. High wooded bluffs and beautiful scenery. Good fishing. State Highway No. 3 follows the river all the way.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 11.—Grain prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade today, wheat having made the expected rally from yesterday's dip and the other pits reacting sympathetically.

July closed higher and December followed September delivery was up fractionally.

Reports of rains in the Southwest wheat belt brought on heavy selling but the decline was not harsh and most operators thought that the reaction of yesterday's heavy liquidation had gone far enough.

Export business was estimated at only about one quarter of a million bushels.

Corn closed a good fraction higher in all positions after a full day. Receipts continue large but the cash demand and prices are steady.

Oats closed sharply higher on a dull market.

Provisions closed sharply lower.

FARMERS FACE A SHORT CROP

UNSEASONABLE SPRING IS THE CAUSE, AG. DEPT. SAYS.

SPRING WHEAT HURT

Large Crop of Apples, Peaches and Pears Indicated—European Agriculture Struggling.

Washington, June 11.—Farmers are faced this season with the shortest crop production of the last fifteen years, due to an unseasonable spring, the agricultural department stated today.

Bumper crops of winter wheat were forecast with production totaling about 543,300,000 bushels, an increase of nearly 150,000,000 bushels over the harvest last year but the condition of practically all other crops is much below normal.

The condition of spring wheat is 7.4 per cent below a ten year average of 89.9 per cent. The crop in the northwest is suffering for moisture and is below average in most producing states.

Pastures and hay crops have suffered from drought. While in the southwest and west the hay crop will be good, indications are the harvest for the entire country will be smaller than for any previous fifteen years.

Apples, peaches and pears survived the cool spring weather and while the season is late in some sections of the country present indications point to a large crop. Georgia, Illinois, North and South Carolina will produce the largest peach crop in years if the weather remains favorable.

The planting of corn and other late crops has not been completed, the department said. Therefore no prospective condition or production estimate could be made.

News from abroad that cereal crops in Europe are not as promising as reports indicated a month ago may cause a heavier demand for American products. European agriculturists have also been struggling against unseasonable weather.

East Missouri Sends Many to Tennis Meet

Wray Brown, Rated as Missouri Valley's Greatest Star, Will Head List of St. Louis Racket Swingers.

St. Louis, June 11.—The eastern side of Missouri will be well represented through St. Louis players at the twenty-fifth annual tournament of the Missouri Valley Tennis Association in Kansas City next week.

Wray Brown, who ranked number 10 in the United States last year and now considered Missouri Valley's greatest star, will head the list of entries.

Joseph Smith, junior champion of the St. Louis district, will be another entry as will Charles Sigoloff, leading player at Washington University who was runner up in the singles at the Missouri Valley Conference Championship matches at Lincoln last month.

William Bascom, the boy champion of St. Louis district, who is number 8 in the national ranking for boys, has announced his entry. Two other important entries will be those of Woodward H. Brown, who in 1924 won the Missouri Valley doubles championship with his brother, Wray Brown, and Edward Sarrano, present holder of the St. Louis District doubles championship with "Ted Drewes."

Mrs. Mallicant Baehr, holder of the single championship for women, will defend her title, and Miss Lottie Hagameyer will join with Mrs. Baehr in defending their doubles title.

Three Stockmen on Wednesday's Market

Ret Corrough, D. H. Phillips and Frank Welch, Nodaway County stockmen, sold steers on the St. Joseph cattle market Wednesday. Corrough had a load of 1,159-pound steers which sold at $9.75, while Phillips sold a load of yearling steers and heifers, averaging 787 pounds, at $9.50, and Welch cashed a load of Angus steers and heifers, averaging 833 pounds, at the same price.

Commissioner Evans Ready for Long Stay

According to the Burlington Junction Post, S. E. Evans, special deputy commissioner in charge of the wrecked Northwestern Bank, will move to Burlington Junction next week from King City. He has rented the residence property of Charles Lane, near the depot.

Each Person Should Have $42.21 Wealth

Washington, June 11.—With $4,870,884,760 in circulation on June 1, every man, woman and child in the United States should have had $42.21 as his share, the treasury department announced.

Each individual also should be 11 cents richer today than one month ago for while the population is increasing so is prosperity and wealth.

Barnard Picnic to Be Held Same Dates

Thirty-Second Annual Homecoming Will Be August 5, 6, 7.—Committees Are Appointed.

The Barnard Picnic will be held this year on the same dates, the first Thursday, Friday and Saturday of August.

A mass meting was held Wednesday night for the purpose of deciding whether the picnic, which is the oldest annual home-coming event of northwest Missouri, would be held again this year. If there were any dissenting votes they did not show up at the meeting. The old officers, John Tulloch, chairman; L. D. Goforth, secretary, and J. G. Skidmore, treasurer, were re-elected and the following committees were appointed: George Daniels, ground; R. T. Smith, amusements; Clyde Perkins, speakers; Dr. Charles Dean Humberd, music; and Ray Davis, advertising.

Plans will be started at once to make all necessary arrangements and to make the annual event worth while. It is a big reunion, not of one family, but of all the families for miles around. People from all over look upon this event as an annual home coming when old friends will gather and enjoy the days and meet with people they have not had a chance to visit with since the event of the previous year. Those who have moved from the community make their plans to return at this time as they know they will have a chance to see everyone and visit with them in the three days when they would probably not see the old friends at any other time.—Barnard Bulletin.

Skidmore to Build Fire Fighting Truck

At a meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening it was decided to purchase an auto chassis and build onto it and make a truck to carry all fire apparatus.

A trip was made to Burlington Junction Monday morning by Mayor Owen, Fire Chief Cokely, Aldermen Garnett and Linville, to see the truck which was made by the fire department at that place. They report it very convenient for fighting fire and that the cost did not run very high.

The truck containing chemicals for fighting fire, all the hose, tools and ladders, and places for the firemen to ride.

The chemicals on the truck will, in many instances, extinguish a fire and avoid using the water from the tower, and also will keep the fire from spreading until the hose has been connected to the hydrant.—Skidmore News.

Bradly was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Jacob Nelson from town. W. F. Davies was appointed to fill the vacancy of C. C. Reynolds resigned. P. L. Henderson was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. C. Noland. Hugh Ellis was installed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. B. Torrance. W. F. Davies was selected as Chairman of Board, Claud Young as Clerk and Collector, Mrs. C. C. Noland, treasurer, Wm. Hinkle, street commissioner, A. F. Harvey, attorney, Dr. J. M. McClanahan, city physician, Wm. T. McCoppin, marshal and Hugh Ellis and O. C. Bradley street and alley commissioners.

The levy for the year 1926 was fixed at 25 cents on the $100 valuation for general purposes and 10 cents on the $100 valuation for electric light fund based on a valuation of $275,010.—Guilford Times.
